

THE EUROPEAN BEAST EMERGES

Many of us remember how Britain scrambled to join the "Common Market." I don't remember any great enthusiasm on the part of the British people but in the interests of the economy at the time the move was understandable. What we didn't realise was the risk to our sovereignty and independence, because the political agenda behind the scenes was kept secret from the British people.

The following article by Christopher Booker in The Sunday Telegraph November 3rd 2002 adds more to this –

A superstate half a century in the making

" It was curious that none of last week's reports on the draft constitution for a "United States of Europe" unveiled in Brussels by Giscard d'Estaing mentioned the fact that this constitution was planned more than 50 years ago, as the concluding move in a secretive process intended to take decades. Only now is it emerging just how carefully planned this project has been; and how deliberately its instigators decided to pretend that it was concerned only with economic co-operation, until their real political agenda could be brought into the open.

Drawing on thousands of published and unpublished documentary sources, Dr Richard North, a research director with the European Parliament, has been assembling evidence for a "secret history" of the European Union, which he and I hope to publish next year. This will radically change the picture given by all previously published accounts of European integration.

The first mention of such a constitution came in a manifesto by a young Italian Communist, Altiero Spinelli (after whom the main building of the EU Parliament in Brussels is now named), in 1944. Spinelli admitted that there was no way his "United States of Europe" could be set up by democratic means; and that the project would have to be put into place gradually, without the peoples of Europe realising what was afoot until they were presented with a constitution as the end of the process.

The key figure in bringing this about, however, was the Frenchman Jean Monnet, a brilliant behind-the-scenes operator, whose vision since the 1920s had been that Europe should be ruled by a supra-national government, beyond the control of those national governments that had so often led Europe into war. He scorned the Council of Europe, set up in the late 1940s, as a mere talking shop. The only way his united Europe could be built, he argued, was bit by bit, taking control over one area of economic activity after another, starting with coal and steel.

He talked the French government into adopting his proposal, with the result that in 1952 the European Coal and Steel Community was set up, with Monnet himself as president, complete with its own council of ministers and court of justice. Although only six countries were involved, he declared: "This is the Government of Europe." It was the template for how he proposed to take control of successive economic sectors, until finally all these "communities" could be welded together under a political constitution.

His next project, to set up a "European defence community" with its own army, and a "European political community" to give it a "political roof", was thrown out by the French parliament.

Monnet then moved on to his next economic sector, nuclear energy. At this point his co-conspirator Paul-Henri Spaak, the former Belgian prime minister, suggested that Monnet's plan for a "European atomic community" should be linked with a much wider "economic community".

Perhaps the most crucial episode of the story came in 1955 when Monnet's draft proposal for a "United States of Europe" was returned to him by Spaak - with all references to political union, a "United States of Europe" and even a , supra-national" government struck out. The project should be sold to the world as just an , economic community", to do with customs barriers and trade. The rest of their project, including a European army and a single currency, could come later.

It was on the basis of this deception that in 1957 the Treaty of Rome was signed, setting up the European Economic Community and Euratom, without revealing how these were intended steps to political integration.

It is now clear from official documents that, when Harold Macmillan applied for British membership of the "Common Market" in 1961, he had been made aware of this political agenda. Yet both he and Edward Heath went along with the pretence that the project was only about economic co- operation (although Heath was almost derailed in 1970 by proposals to implement Monnet's long-standing plan for a single currency).

After Monnet's death in 1979, Spinelli came back into the story. In 1984, by now a senior Italian Communist MEP and ex-Commissioner, Spinelli unveiled his draft "Constitution for European Union", which led to the final merging at Maastricht in 1991, of Monnet's various "communities" in a single "European Union". Over the next decade, as more elements in Monnet's original plan took shape, including the single currency and the beginnings of an EU army, the EU led directly to the outline constitution for a "USE" unveiled by Giscard d'Estaing last Monday.

Everything is unfolding according to plan: even including the likelihood that it would take a half-century or more to be put into place."

What we are now beginning to see is the on going fulfillment of an ancient biblical prophecy detailing events to occur just before the return of Jesus Christ to set up His Kingdom here on the earth !

Daniel 2:44: "And in the days of these kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people; it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever."

Just prior to this verse Daniel had given a prophesy which describes the future great world ruling empires of Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome, which culminates with the description of a kingdom which Daniel describes in chapter 2:42-43 : "And as the toes of the feet were partly of iron and partly of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly fragile: "As you saw iron mixed with ceramic clay, they will mingle with the seed of men; but they will not adhere to one another, just as iron does not mix with clay."

This last resurrection of the Holy Roman Empire is that now forming before our eyes in Europe. It will be made up of ten nations or groups of nations ruled over by ten kings or dictators who will hand over their power to one man to carry this superstate into a globally dominant position just before the return of Jesus Christ. Revelation 17:12-14 : "The ten horns which you saw are ten kings who have received no kingdom as yet, but they receive authority for one hour as kings with the beast. These are of one mind, and they will give their power and authority to the beast. These will make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb will overcome them, for He is Lord of lords and King of kings; and those who are with Him are called, chosen, and faithful."

It is this "beast" whose emergence will soon astonish the world - Revelation 13:3 : "And I saw one of his heads as if it had been mortally wounded, and his deadly wound was healed. And all the world marveled and followed the beast." He will persecute the remnant of God's true Church - Revelation 13:7 : "It was granted to him to make war with the saints and to overcome them. And authority was given him over every tribe, tongue, and nation;"

Revelation 12:17: "And the dragon was enraged with the woman, and he went to make war with the rest of her offspring, who keep the commandments of God and have the testimony of Jesus Christ."

When ? after part of the true Church has been taken into the wilderness - Revelation 12:14: "But the woman was given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness to her place, where she is nourished for a time and times and half a time, from the presence of the serpent."

This European Union of States will be guided by a great false church, depicted once again by a woman

Revelation 17:3-6: "So he carried me away in the Spirit into the wilderness. And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication. And on her forehead a name was written: MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I marveled with great amazement."

At its head will emerge a false prophet who will do great wonders, Revelation 13:13-14: "He performs great signs, so that he even makes fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men. And he deceives those who dwell on the earth by those signs which he was granted to do in the sight of the beast, telling those who dwell on the earth to make an image to the beast who was wounded by the sword and lived."

Notwithstanding the awesome but shortlived power of this coming world dominant combine, one event will bring about its fall - Revelation 19:11-20 : "Now I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse. And He who sat on him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness He judges and makes war. His eyes were like a flame of fire, and on His head were many crowns. He had a name written that no one knew except Himself. He was clothed with a robe dipped in blood, and His name is called The Word of God. And the armies in heaven, clothed in fine linen, white and clean, followed Him on white horses. Now out of His mouth goes a sharp sword, that with it He should strike the nations. And He Himself will rule them with a rod of iron. He Himself treads the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. And He has on His robe and on His thigh a name written: KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS.

Then I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the birds that fly in the midst of heaven, "Come and gather together for the supper of the great God, that you may eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and of those who sit on them, and the flesh of all people, free and slave, both small and great." And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army. Then the beast was captured, and with him the false prophet who worked signs in his presence, by which he deceived those who received the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image. These two were cast alive into the lake of fire burning with brimstone."

The behind the scenes instigator of all these prophesied events will not escape, Revelation 20:1-3:

"Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, having the key to the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand. He laid hold of the dragon, that serpent of old, who is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years; and he cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal on him, so that he should deceive the nations no more till the thousand years were finished. But after these things he must be released for a little while."

Then, at last God's Kingdom will be established here on the earth, a kingdom which "shall stand for ever", Revelation 20:4 : "And I saw thrones, and they sat on them, and judgment was committed to them. Then I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, who had not worshiped the beast or his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they lived and reigned with Christ for a thousand years."
